THE DAILY BULLETIN.

Published every afternoon and delivered in this city, the suburbs and Aberdeen by our carriers, at 6 CENTS a week.

It is welcomed in the households of men of both political parties, for the reason that it is more of a newspaper than a political journal.

Its wide circulation therefore makes it a valuable vehicle for business announcements, which we respectfully invite to our columns.

HIS FIRST CRIME.

A New Story of Jesse James, the Dead Outlaw—Detective Bligh Relates the History of His First Robbery.

Louisville Argus.

In the City Hall yesterday morning an Argus reporter met detective Bligh and interviewed him in regard to the killing of Jesse James, the outlaw. It is a singular fact that captain Bligh, although possessed of a mine of information concerning the career of Jesse James in Kentucky, had not been previously questioned by the daily press concerning that matter which is now of prime interest.

"The man killed in Missouri," remarked captain Bligh, "was unquestionably Jesse James, and in my mind there is no doubt that Jesse is now as dead as a mackerel. His body has been identified beyond the peradventure of a doubt; and any reports to the contrary are purely sensational. I have watched James' career for fourteen years, and every robbery committed by him and his gang is noted in my record of criminal events."

"Do you know anything about the beginning of Jesse's career?"

"I remember very distinctly the first robbery of any importance with which he was connected. This was at Russellville, Ky., in March, 1868. The bank there was robbed in broad daylight. James was unquestionably connected with that robbery, and it was his first in Kentucky and his first of importance anywhere. The facts concerning it have not been published for many years. It was shortly after this robbery that captain Gallagher and myself captured John Shepherd, Jesse's pal and first lieutenant. It was this way: At the time mentioned, in 1868, the bank at Russellville was robbed by five men, who were subsequently proven to be Cole Younger, John Jarrett, John Shepherd, Jim White and Allie Shepherd. Jesse James, who was then quite young, as I subsequently learned, concocted the robbery. He was acquainted with that country, and he knew well, not only how to plan the outrage, but lay out the plan of escape, which he did most successfully. He was unquestionably in the vicinity at time, and led the retreat and escape. He did not actually take part in the robbery for the reason that he had a wound in his lung with which he was then suffering so severely that it was impossible for him to undergo the excitement of the robbery and the subsequent wild ride for liberty."

Shortly after the robbery had been perpetrated, I was telegraphed by Mr. Long, president of the bank, and I went at once to Russellville to investigate. In a room occupied by three of the robbers at the hotel, we discovered scraps of torn paper and a letter, that bore the name of Cole Younger, all evidencing that the party had been in Missouri. In tracing the gang from Russellville, we found that they had spent the night in a sinkhole about twenty-five miles from the scene of robbery. Here we found traces of six, instead of five men who had robbed the bank, and parties living the vicinity who had been attracted by lights the night previous, testified that six men had been seen sitting around a fire and that six horses had been hitched in that neighborhood. This sixth man was undoubtedly Jesse James, who had joined them and led the retreat. Mounted men from Russellville started in pursuit of the outlaws shortly after the robbery, but none of them could be captured. This was owing to the fact that they had friends in Nelson, Marion and Spencer counties, who shielded them. A full description of each of them was published shortly afterwards in the Louisville papers, and this description went all over the state.

A particular member of the gang was described as having but one eye, and that man was John W. Shepherd, Jesse's right hand bower. In the course of three or four days after the robbery I received an anonymous letter, dated Chaplin, Ky., which had been given to a stage driver for presentation to me. This letter stated that a man answering the description of the one eyed party was at or near Chaplin and could not easily be captured; that he was in Chaplin every day. This was enough to give us a clue, and captain Jack Gallagher and myself started that night about 8 o'clock in a buggy for Chaplin. We were armed with a warrant for the arrest of the one eyed man, but no one knew anything about where we were going. Chaplin, by the pike, is forty miles from Louisville and expecting to make it before daylight we had intended to go at once to Shepherd's house and capture him. But Providence interfered in our behalf and we did not arrive in Chaplin until 8 o'clock the next morning. This was owing to the fact that we lost our road and went twenty miles out of the way. We subsequently learned that the gang were all at Shepherd's house that night, and had we gone there we would probably have been killed. It was a dark, rainy night, and it rained all the next day. We put up at the hotel in Chaplin, got breakfast and then concluded to take a little sleep, having previously arranged with a gentleman whom we had taken into our confidence to inform us the moment Shepherd should make his appearance in town. We then went to bed, and were just beginning to sleep, when our friend came in and told us that Shepherd was in a grocery just across the street from the hotel; that he was sitting by the stove with five or six others, and that we would have no trouble in recognizing him, but he did not say that the stove was in the rear end of a room fifty feet in length, with a door opening out into the back yard. Gallagher and I fixed ourselves and walked carelessly into the grocery. It was as I said before, a cold rainy day; we had on overcoats and slouch hats; our pants were crumpled down into our boot legs, and we looked very much like a pair of ruralists. When we first opened the door and saw how far back the stove was we weakened, but only for a moment. We made no halt, however, and walking on down the counter, with our eyes apparently turned toward the shelves we saw our man sitting in an old split bottom chair by the stove. He wore a hat with a broad brim, pulled down over his eyes. We walked up within about ten feet of Shepherd, and then I made a jump for him. This was the first intimation he had that we were after him. A desperate struggle followed between Shepherd on one side and Gallagher and myself on the other. The man fought like a tiger. At one time he had each hand on pistols in his belt, but before he could use them we hurled him with great force over the chair and fell over on top of him. It required about five minutes to overpower and handcuff him. He howled murder, thieves, robbers and everything else, but we didn't care much for that. When we first attacked him everybody in the room, save the man who kept the grocery, ran out, which was a great relief to us, as it convinced us that none of the gang were with him. After getting him secured we put him in the buggy and were about ready to leave, when his wife came rushing up the street with her long hair streaming down her back, her hands up-held, and her tongue moving at the rate of fifty knots an hour. She was a terrible looking creature, and the language she used was fearful. She declared that we would not get far; that the gang were near at hand and would intercept us before we could travel ten miles. Shepherd was also very unruly. He wanted to know how much we were going to get for capturing him, assuring us that he could make it much more profitable if we would let him escape. We listened while he talked. He said he could raise $3,000 by going up into Nelson county, where his friends were. He declared that he was not afraid of the Russellville affair—denying all about it—but admitted that he feared the consequences of certain robberies he had participated in in Missouri. We got him safely to Louisville that night, and subsequently returned him to Russellville, where he

WILLIAM E. CHANDLER has been confirmed by the Senate's Secretary of the Navy, by twenty-eight yeas to sixteen nays. Senator Voorhees was the only Democrat who voted for the confirmation. Every Republican voted for him or was paired in his favor. Senator Beck spoke against the confirmation and reviewed in severe terms, his action in the Southern States pending the national election in 1876. Morgan, Bayard and others made speeches also. The confirmation is a great personal triumph for Chandler.

THE Pacific coast Republicans after consulting with the President, have patched up a Chinese Immigration Bill, by which they hope to save the Pacific states to their party. The bill limits the exclusion of Chinese for ten years only and omits the passport requirement. The Democrats are against it, as it is considered insufficient to meet the existing evil, and will endeavor to have it amended. The programme of the Republicans is to rush it through the House under a suspension of the rules, allowing no debate or amendment. But as this will not be done in the Senate, it will be debated and its insufficiency fully exposed.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. William, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electrics do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Pile Ointment: I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

Skin Diseases Cured
BY DR. FRAZIER'S MAGIC OINTMENT. Cures as if by magic, pimples, black head or grubs, blotches and eruptions on the face, leaving the skin clear, healthy and beautiful. Also cures itch, barber's itch, salt rheum, tetter, ringworm, scald head, chapped hands, sore nipples, sore lips, old obstinate ulcers and sores, &c.

SKIN DISEASE.
F. Drake, Esq., Cleveland, O., suffered beyond all description from a skin disease which appeared on his hands, head and face, and nearly destroyed his eyes. The most careful doctoring failed to help him, and after all had failed he used Dr. Frazier's Magic Ointment and was cured by a few applications.

The first and positive cure for skin diseases ever discovered.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram-shop whisky beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heat the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as I ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

BATCHELDER'S Ventilated Egg Case.

Patented February 15, 1881. Indispensable to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These Trays are constructed in reversible halves. The above cut shows one whole tray filled ready to be placed in case, each egg resting in its cardboard socket in such a manner as to be readily counted, candled, or transferred from tray to tray, or case to case, without reloading.

For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The manner of holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, jarring, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

PRICES IN CHICAGO.

Shipper's No. 1, 30 doz. Case with Filler complete - 45 Cents.
Farmer's No. 1, 18 doz. Case with Filler complete, - 55 Cents.
Cardboard Filler for refilling 20 Cents.
15 per cent. discount on lots of 100 cases.
Batchelder's Egg Tester, setting 6 doz. at once, saves to buyers many times its cost each season. Price $3.00.

By special arrangements made by the manufacturers of this case most Railroads will receive them as fourth class freight.

The 18 dozen case made especially for Farmers' use, sent to any address by express, with out nailing, with full directions for setting up, on receipt of 50 cents. Every Farmer and consumer should have one of these cases, it will save its cost every month. Agents wanted in every county. Address,

The boy did not obey and words passing Lynch struck him over the head with a cane injuring him seriously. He has been insensible the greater part of the time since, and it is feared there is concussion of the brain. Lynch was arrested for assault and battery and will be held to await the result of his stepson's injuries. So far as we can learn there was no bad feeling between the two, and the blow was the unfortunate result of a hasty temper.

MR. COLEGROVE's invitation to people to see his Whipple colts work at the fair ground track and judge of Whipple by their trotting, meets with a favorable response. Several horse fanciers, and breeders were out Wednesday evening, and saw two of Whipple's sons take some rather rapid work. Mr. Hook drove the bay and Bill Trumbo the groom, drove the brown. The spectators were divided in opinion as to which is the better colt. Either of them has a fair prospect of beating Mayflower this year. Whipple is advertised in our columns and the invitation to see his colts work is still extended to all who feel an interest in good horses. Owners of fillies by Bald Chief, Tatler Chief and Red Norman, should heed the invitation.

Passed Away.

Elias Hudnut, one of the few remaining soldiers of the war of 1812, died at his residence in this city last night in the 88th year of his age. Mr. Hudnut, the son of Richard Hudnut and Rebecca Mershon, was born in Pennington, New Jersey, August 16, 1794, and was brought by his parents to Mason county in 1796. His father volunteered in response to the call for volunteers to defend the frontier in 1813, in Capt. Magowan's Company, and died on his way home, at Delaware Ohio. Mr. Hudnut also volunteered in Captain Baker's Company, Boswell's regiment and participated in both sieges of Ft. Meigs. He arrived at the fort April 25 and participated in a sortie when Dudley was defeated. He served six months. He was one of the few remaining pensioners of 1812 living in this county. He leaves a widow and two children—Mrs. V. O. Pinckard of Cincinnati and Miss Mary Hudnut of this city. The funeral will take place tomorrow from the residence.

Elder Andrew Wood, Washington,
Elder Hillis, Sherburne.

A business meeting was held this morning at nine o'clock and another this afternoon at two o'clock. There will be preaching at the church to-night and every night during the session of the Presbytery, and also at the usual hour on Sunday morning. Those who have contemplated uniting with the church will find the present occasion a convenient one for carrying out their intentions. The meetings are public, and all are invited to attend them.

Neal and Craft.

A certificate of supersedeas was filed in the clerk's office at Catlettsburg on the 3d inst., from the clerk of the Court of Appeals, suspending the execution of the sentence of Neal and Craft, the Ashland murderers on the 14th inst. The case came up for hearing last Monday. There are, it is said, some eight hundred pages of records, which the Judges will have to examine, and it will probably be several weeks, yet, before a decision is rendered. If a new trial of the case is refused by the Court of Appeals the Governor will have to fix another day for the hanging.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Mrs. E. Loughridge, left last week to visit her son Wilson Loughridge, in Louisville. The will remain away for about two months.

Prices Reduced.

John Wheeler, dealer in oysters, fish, game, fruit, etc., has made a heavy reduction in prices. Fresh fish at six, and eight cents a pound received daily. Canned goods at greatly reduced prices.

AARON OWENS, colored, died suddenly at Ripley, a few days since.

At the examining trial of John Crow for breaking into Patrick Burke's saloon, the case was made very plain against him. Ben McDaniel was an eye witness to the act and so testified before the Mayor. He was held to appear at the circuit court in the sum of $300, and is now in jail awaiting his trial.

ABERDEEN ITEMS.

Mr. Roland and his sister are visiting the family of Major Carey.

Alex. Midghall and James Hamer have returned from the city, where they have been purchasing tools for their new tin shop.

John Hood, leader of our band, received last Wednesday, a new silver cornet four in one. It is of the latest pattern. It was made in Paris, France.

Alfred Perry is laid up with the mumps. Miss Mollie Glinn, after several weeks visit here, has returned to Brooksville.

The smiling face of Capt. George Oscar Wilde Barkley, may now be seen on board the Gretna Green.

The new telegraph office is a neat one and is a credit to the town, thanks to Dr. Lay.

Great preparations are being made for the 25th inst.

We are glad to learn that the increase of business compels John O'Haran to enlarge his store room. He deserves success.

There has been more building and repairing done in this place, this spring than for many a day.

L. C. H. Riddle is in Lewis county, this week contracting for bark.

H. Sam True has returned from a business trip to Cincinnati.

The fortune telling boat has left.

Captain Powers left yesterday, to visit the western country.

Buck Bowman's store back of this place burned down with its contents last Wednesday night. It is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

was tried, convicted and sentenced to three years in the State prison.

"Did you ever learn whether or not others of the gang were in the neighborhood of Chaplin?"

"Yes. About 8 o'clock that night Jesse James and John Jarrett rode up to the hotel and asked for Shepherd. When told that he had been captured they got on their horses and rode away in a big hurry, going through Owen county to the Ohio river and thereby escaping."

"What do you think of the killing of James by the Ford boys, were they right?"

"Of course they were. One way was as good as another to kill him. He never hesitated to shoot a man in the dark. His uncle, George Hite, of Logan county, told me last fall that Jesse had confessed to him the murder of Ed. Miller, one of the gang, and had said that he would kill any man for $500, or for nothing, if he didn't like him."

"Were you aware of the fact that Wood Hite was here in this city last fall?"

"Certainly. I found at Alex. Meyers' pawn shop a watch that Hite had soaked, and which proved to be the identical watch taken from Fox, the train messenger, in the robbery at Winston. I sent this watch to Fox, who identified and kept it. For reasons best known to myself, I said nothing about the affair at that time, and it has not since been published."

The Remarkable Story Told About Hartz, the Conjuror.

A singular story is told about Mr. Hartz, the conjuror, which is nearly as strange as some of the tricks he performs. According to the story, he was obliged to give up his business in May, 1877, having lost all power of action. His flesh became soft and flaky, and the least touch gave him exquisite pain. His sense of hearing became wonderfully acute, and in the room he occupied, which was on the third floor rear of a house in Brooklyn, he could distinctly hear what was being said in the front basement. He could hear no light, but his memory became so retentive that he could repeat all the conversations he had heard in three years. A footstep seemed as loud as the detonation of a cannon, and he waited with dread for hours beforehand for the report of the sunset and sunrise guns on Governor's Island. He was not able to swallow always, and he says he frequently expected to die from that cause. Sometimes as many as 16 days passed without his drinking. He also ate very little, fasting on an average ten days at a time. His sense of taste was entirely gone, and he is only beginning to recover it. After he had remained awake six months, it occurred to him that it was strange he should live without sleep, and he wrote with a pencil an order to his attendant directing the latter to wake him whenever he appeared to sleep. This occurred only a few times. His beard grew to a length of eighteen inches, and his hair reached to his shoulders. His recovery was more sudden than the attack. One morning recently strength came to him to get up, an hour later he was able to do feats of strength that his attendant, a six footer, was unable to perform. His skin is still tender, and his flesh resembles putty or a burst rubber ball, in that it retains for some time a depression after it has been pressed.

The disease is supposed to have been a disarrangement of the nervous system.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

In Other Words, It Don't Pay.

A New York street-car conductor having spent nearly the whole of one day arresting and prosecuting an evil boy who threw a lump of coal through the car window, a philosophical comrade on the same line observed: "Often dem boys make dot foolishnesses. But I bodders not mineself mit dot. Nefter I gam see dot hoy vat makes him. Vat for shall I? Ven I see him, I lose me a halluf a day, goin' by de govt. De company pays me notting for dot. Maybe it vas bad for de passengers dot dber eyes got knock owit by dem boys, but I don't car afford I bodder mineself by dot."

Eight silver vases have been found in a tomb in Sweden, and have been bought by the Stockholm Museum. Four date from the fourteenth century, one is credited to the twelfth century and the other three are older still. All bear quaint designs and one has a Runie inscription.
